Representatives of the Principality of Monaco, including the H.E. Maccario, consul general, joined executives from the Segerstrom Arts — led by Terry Dwyer and the marketing team from South Coast Plaza — to welcome invited guests for the West Coast exclusive of "Cinderella" by Les Ballets de Monte Carlo at the center.

Local celebrity chef Jamie Gwen pressed the flesh of dignitaries coming together for dinner at Café Rouge introduced chef Ross Pangilinan to the dining room as he received applause for the presentation of a Monagasque-inspired three-course dinner featuring a delightful sea bass entrée.

The dinner and subsequent performance of "Cinderella" capped 10 days of collaboration between Monaco and Costa Mesa in conjunction with the 30th anniversary of the Princess Grace Foundation-USA. A contingent of dignitaries representing the New York-based foundation jetted out to California to assist in a series of events designed to promote an ongoing relationship between the citizens of Orange County and Monte Carlo.

It is an effort that the Monaco tourist office takes very seriously, and they are extremely capable when creating excitement and artistic flair.

The late Serene Highness Princess Grace is, of course, a significant element in the marketing efforts of the South Coast Plaza produced an exhibit, in collaboration with the European contingent, showcasing her work and recalled the cultural heritage of Monaco and the contribution of Princess Grace with regards to the international artistic arena.

For those unfamiliar, the foundation created in her name 30 years ago finds its sole primary purpose in to support unknown emerging artistic talent in multiple disciplines, including the performing and visual arts. Years, scholarships provided by the foundation have sustained and enabled talent to find their voice in otherwise have been impossible circumstances, given the demands of making a living and supporting a world that doesn't particularly care about artistic pursuits.
